

04.19.17

EXCERPT: EXHIBITION

Outfit Your Whole House With These Magical Desert Sand Sculptures

by Zoe Sessums

For Dri. , the inaugural collec onlaunched by Fernando Mastrangelo last year at Collec ve Design, the Brooklyn-based designer was inspired by his travels to the Grand Canyon and through the glacial landscapes of Patagonia. For his follow-up series, Escape, which debuted over the last two weeks in Milan first at Rossana Orlandi Gallery, then in New York at Maison Gerard, Mastrangelo proves he's s II under the influence of exo c landscapes and the beauty of things found in nature. Here, he takes a giant leap forward in terms of color and his experimental approach to materials, layering hand-dyed granules — including sand, coffee, powdered glass, and silica — to create an ethereal suite of furniture, inspired by his trips to the American Southwest. With an en re set for your living room — bench, credenza, coffee table, desk, and a shelving unit shaped like the fin of a surfboard — each piece takes on the quali es of a three-dimensional landscape pain ng in rich blues, creams, purples, and browns. Mastrangelo's construc on is poe c and meless, inspiring fantasy and u lity. Be sure to check out the Escape series now on view at Maison Gerard in New York un I May 13.

