"I discovered a photograph of post-World War II Osaka, and the burnt-out shapes of the city grid reminded me of the patterning of lacewood" —Achille Salvagni

Inspired by color and emotion, A Study in Green is a refined modernist collection from designer Achille Salvagni. The Garda sofa's angular shape, upholstered in Dedar's Alexander wool velvet, sprang from an aerial view of Italy's largest lake. Pietra, a faceted cocktail table in glossy French-polished walnut, evokes its name, Italian for rock. Similarly boulderlike in form, Circeo is a screen of bronze-hinged parchment panels. And Osaka's French-polished lacewood desktop sprouts a built-in reading light whose cast-bronze and onyx form, detailed in 24-karat-gold, is a somber nod to flowers planted throughout the Japanese city as a sign of postwar hope. Pieces are limited to editions of 10 or less and, except for Osaka, are available in the U.S. through Maison Gerard, maison Gerard.com; achillesalvagni.com, circle 489 >
