

INTERIOR DESIGN[®]

OCTOBER 31
2018

face off!
fall market tabloid

Marie Christine Dorner
for Ligne Roset

Hella Jongerius
for Vitra

Ayala Serfaty
of Ayala Serfaty

Hamish Makgill and Alejandro Villarreal
for Hayche

product L'Imprévu
standout A French reference to the unexpected guest, this sofa with removable backrests by the Paris-based Dorner Design principal can combine with a second unit to form a queen-size sleeper. ligne-roset.com

product Polder
standout A special-edition version of the Dutch designer's low-slung, constructivist sofa mixes blush-pink tones with tan and taupe upholstered elements. vitra.com

product Waku Leh
standout The Israeli artist's devotion to materiality is evident in this enveloping lounge, upholstered in finely woven layers of handmade wool and silk felt. Through Maison Gerard. maisongerard.com

product WW Colour
standout The founder of branding agency Studio Makgill brainstormed vivid new palettes for Villarreal's Windsor chair, augmenting natural oak with stained finishes and powder-coated wire. hayche.com

seating

5 6
8 7

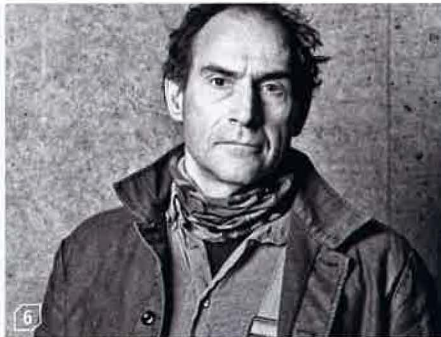

Anthony Land
of Stylex

Joep van Lieshout
for Moovi

Ben Erickson
of Erickson Aesthetics

Ludovica and Roberto Palomba
for Poltrona Frau

product Metrum
standout The brand's product designer conceived a modular sofa system, available in three back heights, that can link with benches and tables to form long, linear runs. stylexseating.com

product Liberty
standout Integrating a tablet armrest, the sculptor and Atelier Van Lieshout founder's angular lounger is crafted of American walnut and can be softened with a sheepskin throw. moovi.com

product Contemporary standout An oak armchair merges art and design, its canvas cover splashed with acrylic, spray paint, and marker by Queens, New York-based talent Matthew Kirk. Through Maison Gerard. maisongerard.com

product Come Together
standout With optional oversize goose-feather cushions and tables, this modular sofa system by the prolific architect-designers truly brings people together. poltronafrau.com

seating

1. Denim ottoman in up-cycled denim with detachable Palo Blanco tray by Ebb and Flow Furniture. ebbandflowfurniture.com
2. Delta stools with leather seats and epoxied wire bases by M.A.D. madfurnituredesign.com
3. Marcos Catalán's Kilim wool pouf with flame-retardant padding and birch base by Nanimarquina. nanimarquina.com
4. Stool 60 in birch with paint colors inspired by archival glazes by Heath Ceramics + Artek. heathceramics.com
5. Mochi beanbag in full-aniline top-grain American leather by Sixpenny. sixpenny.com
6. Hex stool in resin over wood by Factice Studio through Decaso. decaso.com
7. Kingstown stools and bar stools handcrafted of sustainably sourced American hardwood in new black, gray, and white finishes by Studio Dunn. studiodunn.com
8. David Powell's Exalto tufted channel-back lounge and Alto stools with powder-coated or plated steel frames by Powell & Bonnell. powellandbonnell.com
9. Round upholstered ottoman with walnut-inlaid statuary bronze base by Carol Egan through Maison Gerard. maisongerard.com

sweet spots

We're never too cool for stools (or beanbags)

1 2
4 3

furniture

1
Lara Bohinc
of Bohinc Studio

product Orbit
standout The designer's coffee table has verdigris-patinated copper tops that meet mazelike legs in bronze or brass-coated steel. bohincstudio.com

2
Skylar Morgan
of Skylar Morgan Furniture

product Hillock
standout Dowels of river-reclaimed Louisiana sinker cypress clad the maple-and-leather interior of an armoire that riffs on classic tambour paneling. skylarmorganfurniture.com

3
Achille Salvagni
of Achille Salvagni Atelier

product Apollo standout The monolithic might of this multifaceted coffee table in lacewood with Alpaca finish measures 66 inches wide and 12 high. Through Maison Gerard. maison Gerard.com

4
Jeremy Kamiya
of Kamiya Furniture

product #0031 and #0033
standout Book-matched black walnut entry tables graced with tiger maple marquetry epitomize the Durham, North Carolina, maker's motto: Furniture is art. kamiyafurniture.com

BOTTOM, SECOND FROM RIGHT: PAOLO PETRIGNANI

rock solid

Tables with stone-cold glamour

1. Gong Terrazzo side table with matte-lacquer top by Cappellini. cappellini.it
2. Anna Karlin and Fernando Mastrangelo's Chunk 03 side table in celadon cement, crystal quartz, and white sand by Fernando Mastrangelo. fernandomastrangelo.com
3. Brian side tables in marble with brass-finished iron legs by Opera Contemporary. operacontemporary.com
4. Drum table in blue sodalite and white plaster by Samuel Amoia through Decaso. decaso.com
5. Gueridon Volubile No. 538 in Marinace marble, patinated bronze, and gilt bronze by Hervé Van der Straeten through Maison Gerard. maisongerard.com
6. Arielle Assouline-Lichten's Askew side table in steel and marble by Slash Objects. slashobjects.com
7. Dining tables topped in white marble, black marble, and acacia and resin with antiqued-bronze or black gloss stems by West Elm Contract. westelm.com/contract

furniture

"I strive for simplicity and perfection, relying almost wholly on visual balance, movement, and proportion"

lighting

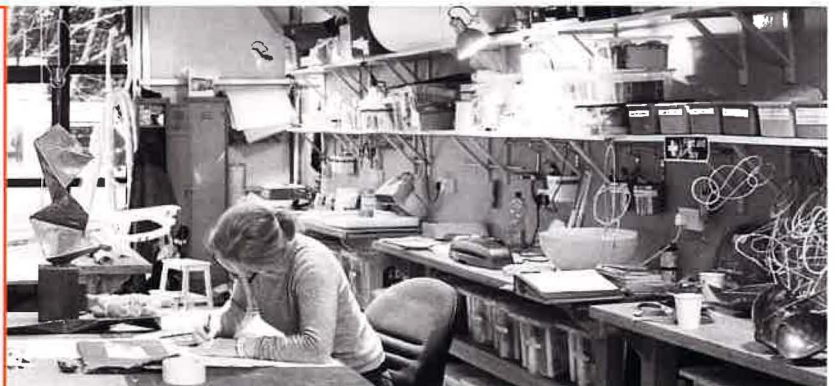

NIAMH BARRY

niamh barry lighting

The pioneering artist/entrepreneur's sleek and shapely "light sculptures" have been exhibited—and lauded—internationally; a glance reveals why. Barry starts out by sketching her ideas and transcribing them to maquettes; then she crafts her large-scale masterworks with bronze, embedded lights, and handcut glass. In the stellar Black Poise, freehand bronze ellipses—their exteriors dark-patinated, the interiors kissed in gold—dance around each other. The mirror-polished Counterpoise, also with opal glass, is studded with light-emitting coques. Maison Gerard now carries a panoply of the Dubliner's designs; good luck choosing. maisongerard.com ➔

BLACK POISE

CLOCKWISE FROM BOTTOM LEFT: NIAMH BARRY LIGHTING (2); NIAMH BARRY LIGHTING; ARIAN CAMILLERI